

Test 8

A 68-year-old woman was delivered by ambulance with a nosebleed. The anamnesis revealed that she had been suffering from hypertension for 15 years, without treatment. Blood pressure 210/120 mm Hg. Periodic nosebleeds have been disturbing for several years. Objectively, it was found that there were bloody clots in the nasal cavity, breathing was free. During the removal of the clots, bleeding from the nasal septum appeared. What first aid should be provided?

Topic 15. Nose traumas, nosebleeds. Foreign bodies of ENT organs.

Test 8

A 68-year-old woman was delivered by ambulance with a nosebleed. The anamnesis revealed that she had been suffering from hypertension for 15 years, without treatment. Blood pressure 210/120 mm Hg. Periodic nosebleeds have been disturbing for several years. Objectively, it was found that there were bloody clots in the nasal cavity, breathing was free. During the removal of the clots, bleeding from the nasal septum appeared. What first aid should be provided?

- Nasal mucosa extinguishing with silver nitrate solution or vagotil
- Posterior tamponade
- Detachment of the nasal septum mucosa
- Ligation of the carotid artery on the side of bleeding

Test 8

- A 68-year-old woman was delivered by ambulance with a nosebleed. The anamnesis revealed that she had been suffering from hypertension for 15 years, without treatment. Blood pressure 210/120 mm Hg. Periodic nosebleeds have been disturbing for several years. Objectively, it was found that there were bloody clots in the nasal cavity, breathing was free. During the removal of the clots, bleeding from the nasal septum appeared. What first aid should be provided?
- Anterior nasal tamponade with vasoconstrictor drugs, blood pressure control